Workshop Proposal Form

We invite you to submit a proposal for the upcoming 21st Century Literacies Conference to be held in Birmingham, Alabama on Saturday, March 3, 2012, from 8:00 am – 3:00 pm. This year's theme focuses on four strands: Rtl, Content-Area Literacies, Writing -What Matters K-12, and Technology. We invite presentations from a range of perspectives and approaches. How do you approach and/or teach students who are reluctant to read and write? How do you engage reluctant readers and writers? What pieces of literature do you teach and how? How do you incorporate technology to reach all students? Do you have a lesson that worked well that you would like to share? Do you have any suggestions that would help all teachers reach reluctant and advanced readers and writers? If you have or do something great, we want to hear about it!

We welcome proposals from new and experienced classroom teachers, college/university professors, consultants, and advanced students in colleges of education. We encourage teachers from grade levels K-12 and teachers of all content areas to submit proposals. Proposals must designate the type of session proposed: poster, research presentation (15-20 minute talks combined in one 60 minute session), or interactive workshop (60 minute session). You may type directly on this form. If you need additional space, please attach a Word document.

Workshop Proposal Due Date: Friday, January 27, 2012.
